Calendar Marks Fiftieth Year

In celebration of fifty years of service and the International Year of the Disabled, NLS has produced an illustrated desk calendar in large print and braille. Single copies of the calendar are available to braille readers on a first-come, first-served basis from the National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C. 20542, Attention: Publication and Media Section.

The 1981 commemorative calendar, which measures nine by eleven inches, has ample margins designed for note taking with slate stylus. The print illustrations highlight the history of service, which dates back to Valentin Haüy's foundation of a French school for blind students in 1785.

At the Library of Congress, national braille service was established March 3, 1931, when President Herbert Hoover signed the Pratt-Smoot Act into law. The act authorized Congress to appropriate $100,000 a year to provide books for the use of "adult blind residents of the United States." Since then, the service has grown to include both braille and talking books; adults and children; blind and physically handicapped readers; and braille scores and braille or recorded materials on music and musicians.

From 1979 to 1980, the Congressional appropriation for the service totaled nearly $35 million. During the same period, the network of 160 cooperating libraries reported a total readership of 720,000 adults and children, and a circulation of 16 million books and magazines.

Reagan—The Man The Politician

Several books revealing different facets of our recently elected president have been scheduled for recording and brailleing this year. The books will be listed later this year with a full description in Braille Book Review as soon as they are available at braille-lending libraries.

In Sincerely, Ronald Reagan (RD 15799, RC 15799, and in press braille) edited by Helene von Damm, Mr. Reagan's former secretary and assistant has constructed a narrative portrait of the governor and candidate, using his correspondence to Americans from every walk of life. The letters offer President Reagan's personal expressions of political and moral concerns.

Reagan in Pursuit of the President—1980 (RD 15538 and in handcopied braille), by Doug and Bill Wead, presents the man and the politician—his faith and his positions on America's problems and image overseas.

In the partly autobiographical Nancy (RD 15795, RC 15795, and in handcopied braille) written with Bill Libby, Mrs. Reagan speaks out on such issues as abortion and capital punishment, and looks at Reagan the father, husband, and governor.

Political Profiles: Ronald Reagan (scheduled for production in handcopied braille) consists of news items on the American political scene and short articles on the president's years as governor, his personal finances, his campaign staff, and his positions on the issues.

To stay current with the new president and his administration, readers may want to order free magazine subscriptions to the New York Times Large-Type Weekly in braille or talking book and the talking-book editions of Atlantic, Harper's, Newsweek, and U.S. News and World Report. Subscriptions may be ordered through cooperating libraries.

Braille Catalogs

Braille paperback editions of Press Braille Adult, 1978-1979 and For Younger Readers: Braille Books, 1978-1979 have been published. These two catalogs of braille books produced in 1978 and 1979 have been mailed to readers and libraries who placed their orders last year. Readers who did not order in advance may request free copies of the catalogs through braille-lending libraries.

Press Braille Adult, 1978-1979, also available in large print or on loan as BR 4304 in hardback braille edition, lists braille titles selected for adults and young adults, junior high school age or older.

For Younger Readers... 1978-1979, also available in large print or on loan as BR 4305 in hardback braille edition, lists braille titles selected for children, preschool through grade 9. The large-print edition also lists recorded titles.

Both catalogs list books by subject within the broader nonfiction and fiction categories.

Bibliographies Published

Biography: The Arts has been published in large print. The disc and braille editions of the new bibliography are being produced soon. This latest bibliography in the NLS series has been sent to a mailing list of readers who indicated their interest in a survey conducted early last year.

The new bibliography includes memoirs, reminiscences, and other biographical and autobiographical material on creative personalities in the arts. Noteworthy titles are Boswell's Life of Samuel Johnson, Grandma Moses: My Life's History, and Lauren Bacall: By Myself.

The next bibliography scheduled for publication is Biography: Government and Politics, in large-print, disc, and braille editions. As soon as they are produced, the new bibliographies will be sent to readers who ordered them via last year's survey. Extra copies of both bibliographies will be sent to cooperating libraries and made available to readers who did not place advance orders.

Braille Survey Extended in 1981

The grade 1 braille survey has been extended for another year. Readers can join the survey by ordering free subscriptions to National Geographic or Children's Digest in grade 1 braille. Grade 2 editions of these magazines will continue to be mailed to the current subscribers.

The purpose of the survey is to measure reader interest in grade 1 and to determine its suitability for different reading materials. Grade 1 braille has no contractions and is believed to be easier to learn than grade 2 or other contracted forms of braille.

Aware of the growing popularity of grade 1 braille in Europe, NLS launched its survey in January last year. By the year's end, some 200 readers had joined the survey by ordering a grade 1 subscription. Sometime later this year, NLS plans to mail a questionnaire to survey participants.

To join the survey, ask your cooperating library for a free grade 1 subscription to National Geographic or Children's Digest. Send comments and requests for more information to Project Coordinator, Grade 1 Braille, National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, Washington, D.C. 20542.

Magazine Corner

Book Reviews from the Times

Find out more about the newest books on the market by ordering a free subscription to Books of the Times in braille or on flexible disc. This recent addition to the NLS magazine program is published in print once a month by a subsidiary of the New York Times. Production of monthly braille and flexible-disc editions is scheduled to begin this year.

Issues contain a month's worth of daily book reviews from the columns of the New York Times. The reviews are brief—anywhere from 100 to 500 words—and organized alphabetically by title, without regard to fiction and nonfiction categories. Books of the Times includes current hardcover and paperback bestseller lists plus highlights of events and trends in the bookmarket.

Free subscriptions to Books of the Times as well as other braille and flexible-disc magazines with book review sections may be ordered through cooperating libraries. Comments on the new Books of the Times are welcomed by the National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C. 20542, Attention: Collection Development.

National Contest in Computer Aids

Johns Hopkins University, the National Science Foundation, and Radio Shack company, are sponsoring a national contest in computer aids for blind and physically handicapped people. The contest, running from November 25, 1980, to June 30, 1981, is aimed at encouraging invention of new computer devices, methods, and programs to help handicapped people overcome difficulties in learning, working, and adapting to home and community settings. A $10,000 grand prize will go to the best entry, with one hundred other awards for outstanding regional and national entries.

The contest is open to computer professionals, amateurs, and students throughout the United States. For a descriptive flyer, contest applications, and more information, write to Personal Computing to Aid the Handicapped, Johns Hopkins University, Post Office Box 670, Laurel, Maryland 20810.

Gladys Taber and the Simple Pleasures

“In our family we have always found that eating together aids family solidarity. When we face various personality conflicts or major problems, we have a way of saying, ‘Well, let’s have supper first.’ We find that tension ease and difficulties can be handled after we have gathered around the table and had a good meal.” So wrote Gladys Taber in My Own Cookbook: From Stillmeadow and Cape Cod (BR 2123 and RC 9750), mixing personal recipes for life and cooking.

Gladys Taber died last year, but her books will continue to live in the hearts of many readers. Mrs. Taber wrote numerous books about dogs, cats, and cooking, as well as the “Diary of Domesticity” section in Ladies’ Home Journal. She also contributed articles to Family Circle Magazine. She was best known for singing the joys of the simple life in her New England farm home, Stillmeadow.

The following books by Gladys Taber can be ordered from cooperating libraries:

Braille

Country Chronicle (BR 2575).

Personal and humorous descriptions of the changing seasons. Includes favorite recipes.

My Own Cape Cod (BRA 13223).

Celebrates the quiet life and people of New England.

My Own Cookbook: From Stillmeadow and Cape Cod (BR 2123). Shares 300 recipes, menu suggestions, and cheerful comments.

Discs

Harvest of Yesterdays (RC 10178).

Reminiscences about growing up in the Southwest and Mexico, small-town life in Wisconsin, and marriage.

The Stillmeadow Road (RD 8171). Life in a Connecticut farmhouse that is always filled with cats, dogs, friends, and the smell of cooking.

Cassettes

Conversations with Amber (RC 12871). Affectionate dialogue with pet Abyssinian cat, on feminism, friendship, and aging.

My Own Cookbook: From Stillmeadow and Cape Cod (RC 9750).

Newsstand

The following announcements may be of special interest to readers. Materials mentioned here, however, are not part of the NLS program.

Hadley Courses. For advancement or personal enrichment, readers can take free braille or recorded courses offered by the Hadley School for the Blind. The school's current Bulletin of Courses lists over 130 accredited correspondence courses—secondary through college level. The school, founded in 1920, has an enrollment of some 4,500 students in every state and overseas. Write for the Bulletin of Courses, in braille or on cassette, free from the Student Services Coordinator, Hadley School for the Blind, 700 Elm Street, Winnetka, Illinois 60093, or call toll-free from 2 to 3 p.m. Central Time 800-323-4238.

Woodside Books. Last year Woodside Terrace volunteers added ten handcopied books to their loan collection, including The Thorn Birds, a fifteen-volume bestselling novel by Colleen McCullough. The Thorn Birds is also available as BR 4284 from braille-lending libraries. For a free list of handcopied books on loan from the Woodside collection, write to Mrs. Murray Draper, 850 Longview Road, Hillsborough, California 94010, or call (area code 415) 344-0803.

Fiction

Demelza BR 3518

by Winston Graham

5 volumes

Second novel in the Poldark series about young Demelza, the daughter of a Cornish miner who marries Poldark.

Demelza finds she has much to learn of the ways of society and men. 1946.

Jeremy Poldark BR 3519

by Graham Winston

4 volumes

Third of the Poldark novels depicts Ross Poldark in the blackest moment of his life. He is charged with having plundered two wrecked ships on the beach below his house and must appear in court. 1960.

Warleggan BR 3520

by Winston Graham

5 volumes

Fourth novel of the Poldark series about one of the stormiest periods in the marriage of Ross and Demelza. Ross plunges into a speculative copper-mining venture, has a dubious relationship with Elizabeth, his cousin's wife, and Demelza becomes involved with a Scottish officer. 1953.

Ross Poldark BR 3521

by Winston Graham

5 volumes

Set in Cornwall toward the close of the eighteenth century, this novel is about a lonely man who returns from the fighting in America to find that the girl he intends to marry is engaged to his cousin, his father is dead, and his estate in ruins. 1945.

The Big Footprints BR 3523

by Hammond Innes

4 volumes

In one of the least-known, most inhospitable areas of Africa's Rift Valley, Cornelius van Delden seeks to save, and Major Kirby-Smith to destroy the last remaining elephants in a trek across the Serengeti to Lake Rudolf. 1977.

Belonging BR 3940

by Deborah Kent

1 volume

Fifteen-year-old Meg, who longs to be like everyone else, insists on enrolling in Ridge View High School instead of continuing at the special institute for blind students. During a very difficult year, she learns that being like everyone else isn't as easy or as satisfying as she has imagined. A largely autobiographical first novel by a young blind author. For junior and senior high readers. 1978.

Godsfire BR 4043

by Cynthia Felice

4 volumes

Heao, a member of the ruling feline people, belongs to a cult of intellectuals on a planet in the throes of a receding ice age. She and all her people have been conquered by a primitive king whose dreams of destruction haunt him and may doom all of her kind. 1978.

Ravenburn BR 4046

by Laura Black

2 volumes

In nineteenth-century Scotland, eighteen-year-old Katie Irvine is treated like a stepchild since the death of her father, Lord Ravenburn. She has few clothes, little society, and only the outdoors and books as companions. Drawn to a little local island, Katie finds a true friend and love in the isle's abandoned ruined castle. 1978.

Ring of the Jews BR 4047

by Leslie Epstein

2 volumes

This stark novel plumbs the depths of one of the most excruciating enigmas of the Holocaust. The president of a Polish Judenrat, a council of Jews appointed to carry out Nazi orders, uses his power to set up an authoritarian regime in the ghetto. The ghetto residents view him alternately as savior and executioner of his people. 1979.

Wonders of Darkness BR 4087

by Ronald Hardy

2 volumes

In 1973, village upon village in Mozambique is invaded by the deadly blackfly that is causing blindness, while the Portuguese government remains indifferent to the plight of the natives. Dr. Harry Lynd, who arrives from the World Health Organization to fight the disease, finds he must weave a difficult path between the guerrillas and the government. Some strong language and explicit descriptions of sex. 1979.

Sophie's Choice BR 4142

by William Styron

6 volumes

Stingo moves into a cheap Brooklyn rooming house where he meets unstable Nathan and his gorgeous lover Sophie, a Polish Catholic who somehow survived the Holocaust. Stingo, who feels unrequited love for Sophie, becomes her confidant as she faces the horrors of her past, especially the years she worked for the commandant of Auschwitz. Strong language and some explicit descriptions of sex. 1979.

The Daybreakers BR 4182

by Louis L'Amour

2 volumes

Ty Sackett kills a man in Tennessee, fair and square, and then hits the trail west with his brother Orrin. Those were the years when decent men and women were in fear of Indians, rustlers, and killers. But the brothers bring law and order from Santa Fe to Montana and help make the West a safe land. 1979.

Bush Doctor BR 4189

by Rosemary Carter

2 volumes

Stacey accepts a nursing assignment in a remote hospital near the African jungle. She is astonished to discover that one of the doctors at the hospital is a former lover she is desperately trying to forget. Harlequin romance. 1979.

The Spring of the Tiger BR 4193

by Victoria Holt

3 volumes

The lively but sheltered daughter of a celebrated London actress is forced to live with two spinster aunts who preside over the ancient estate called Ashington Grange after a scandal ends her mother's career. There she learns about her father's life in Ceylon and marries a colorful tea plantation owner. Her world soon becomes a nightmare. 1979.

Chase a Green Shadow BR 4199

by Anne Mather

2 volumes

Young Tamsyn reluctantly goes to visit her father in Wales. There, she meets an attractive older man who arouses powerful, conflicting emotions within her. Harlequin romance. 1974.

Prelude to Enchantment BR 4208

by Anne Mather

2 volumes

On assignment to interview a famous author at his palazzo in Venice, a reporter falls in love with him. When she learns that he desperately needs money and a glamorous, wealthy woman is ready to marry him, she despairs of even finding a place in his heart. Harlequin romance. 1974.

Love This Stranger BR 4209

by Rosalind Brett

2 volumes

Nineteen-year-old Tess Bentley singlehandedly runs a general store in the middle of the African veld. Despite her protests, a handsome young man arranges to take the store out of her hands and ruthlessly organizes her life. Harlequin romance. 1974.

The Widow's Cruise BR 4211

by Nicholas Blake

2 volumes

Nigel Strangeways and Clare Massinger go on a summer cruise in the Grecian isles. The curiously assorted passengers include a disturbing widow, her neurotic sister and an odious, precocious child named Primrose. After the ship sails from Kalymnos, tragedy strikes and Strangeways find himself conducting a bizarre investigation. 1977.

The Night of the Bulls BR 4212

by Anne Mather

1 volume

In a remote area in the south of France, Dionne returns to seek help from her ex-lover, who does not know he is the father of her child. Reviving memories of their tragic and passionate affair three years ago, the journey forces her to examine her own feelings for her lover and to confront the opposition of his mother. Harlequin novel. 1974.

The Nonesuch BR 4224

Over Fifty Years Ago

Genesis of the Program

Fifty years ago, passage of the Pratt-Smoot Act firmly laid the foundation for a national library service for the blind and physically handicapped. The process that led to passage actually began years earlier.

By 1879 Congress had set aside a trust fund for the production of textbooks by the American Printing House for the Blind. The need for other reading materials increased as more and more people were graduated from schools for blind students.

Libraries for blind readers soon felt the pressures for more books. The New York Public Library's special department for blind readers had one thousand books—a large collection in those days, though tiny when compared to the library's print holdings.

A study undertaken in 1928 by the American Foundation for the Blind concluded that there were approximately ten thousand library patrons out of a population of one hundred thousand blind people. Service was provided by some seventy-five libraries, but many patrons had simply stopped using the libraries because of the scarcity of books.

By 1929, the Library of Congress Reading Room for the Blind, established in 1897, contained several thousand volumes in six different forms of raised type, most of them done by hand for individuals who had donated them to the collection.

In 1930 Congress began consideration of three bills favoring government support of a program to provide embossed books. Representative Ruth Pratt (R-NY) sponsored a bill proposing administration of the funds and program by the Library of Congress. Her bill also authorized the use of local and regional distribution centers. Other bills provided for private administration of funds by either the American Library Association or the Braille Institute of America, Inc.

After lengthy debate in committee, the Pratt bill was reported favorably to the House, and Senator Reed Smoot (R-Utah) introduced a companion bill in the Senate. His bill was reported out of committee favorably on May 9, 1930, and passed the Senate within three days without debate.

The Pratt bill was finally considered by the House on February 28, 1931, and passed after much repetition of earlier committee debates. Three days later the Pratt-Smoot Act, Public Law 71-787, was signed by President Herbert Hoover.

Congress subsequently passed a joint resolution to appropriate $100,000 to support the new program, which became effective with the new fiscal year beginning on July 1. Nationwide library service for blind adults had been given the authority and means to begin.

Order Forms for New Publications

Again this year Braille Book Review subscribers will receive order forms listing forthcoming catalogs and bibliographies.

Produced in braille for braille readers and in large print for large-print readers, the form should reach each subscriber by June. It asks readers to indicate their choices of new publications and to respond by returning the form.

A deadline date for responses is stated on the form. The order forms are preaddressed and designed for postage-free return. Responses to them will be used to establish lists for direct mailings and to help minimize production costs.

Bestsellers of 1979-1980

Each year selecting librarians at NLS consider a new crop of titles on the bestseller lists. From the long list of titles selected for production, those promising the widest appeal are sent forward for production.

The following list shows titles recently produced in braille. The list ranks five non-fiction and five fiction bestsellers in descending order of popularity. The ranking is based on the Publishers Weekly annual list of the bestselling hardcover books of 1979-1980. An asterisk following the brief description indicates the book contains passages with strong language, violence, or explicit descriptions of sex.

Nonfiction

Aunt Erma's Cope Book (BR 4246) by Erma Bombeck. Humorist parodies the how-to and self-help mania. Also available as RD 14029 and RC 14029.

Donahue (BR 4366) by Phil Donahue. Candid memoirs of a popular TV talk-show host. Also available as RD 14910 and RC 14910.*

Thy Neighbor's Wife (BR 4504) by Gay Talese. Report on current American sexual attitudes and mores. Also available as RD 15456 and RC 15456.*

Will (BR 4428) by G. Gordon Liddy. Autobiography of tight-lipped ex-CIA agent sent to prison for his involvement in the Watergate scandal. Also available as RC 15734.*

The Medusa and the Snail: More Notes of a Biology Watcher (BR 4150) by Lewis Thomas. Essays on life, medicine, and science take as a theme the fates of the medusa, a parasitic jellyfish, and its host, the sea slug.

Fiction

Sophie's Choice (Br 4142) by William Styron. A Young writer recalls an unforgettable summer with a victim from the Holocaust. Also available as RD 13812 and RC 13812.*

The Last Enchantment (BRA 16178) by Mary Stewart. Young Arthur's first year as king, told by Merlin the Enchanter. Also available as RD 13831 and RC 13831.

The Dead Zone (BRA 15944) by Stephen King. New England schoolteacher awakens from coma with future sight. Also available as RD 13973 and RC 13973.*

No Love Lost (BR 4510) by Helen Van Slyke. Probes the lives of three generations of women who confront their husbands' infidelities. Also available as RD 15452 and RC 15452.*

The Green Ripper (Br 4317) by John D. MacDonald. Travis McGee launches a vengeful investigation into a sadistic religious cult. Also available as RD 14032 and RC 14032.*

Many more of this year's and last year's bestsellers are in production and will be announced when available. Some have already been produced in disc and cassette editions and are now available at cooperating libraries. Readers interested in bestselling titles of years past may want to ask for braille copies of Bestsellers, a listing of braille books published from the turn of the century through the 1970s. Bestsellers in braille comes with a flexible-disc listing of recorded best-selling titles.

Magazine Corner

Fortune

In its half century of existence, Fortune has earned a reputation as the magazine for the stock broker and corporate executive. But it is much more than this. Students, young managers, and the general public read the magazine for analysis of social, economic, and political events on the national and international scene.

Fortune is published every two weeks in print and offered as a free braille subscription magazine. As part of its regular fare, Fortune offers columns with brief news items, economic forecasts, tips on investment, and notes on keeping up with the economy. In the February 9 issue this year, the magazine featured “Chrysler on the Brink,” an in-depth piece on the giant motor corporation’s difficulties. Other articles discussed such topics as the defense position of our NATO allies and reports of an undercount on the 1980 census. The Bed and Board column reviewed a posh French restaurant in Saint Louis, Missouri.

Subscribers to the braille edition receive the same news with the exception of the Fortune directories of the nation’s 500 leading firms, published in the May, June, and July print issues. Free subscriptions to Fortune in braille can be ordered from cooperating libraries.

Magazine Package

Encore

Diabetes Forecast, Disabled USA, and Paraplegia News are three magazines readers hear little about, yet all three are offered as free subscription magazines through cooperating libraries. They come as part of Encore, a special bimonthly magazine package in a flexible-disc edition.

Diabetes Forecast is published by the American Diabetes Association. It carries news and features on treatment and medical advances and includes letters, science news in brief, recipes, a pen pals column, and a medical question and answer section. Disabled USA, published by the President’s Committee on Employment of the Handicapped, provides information on rehabilitation and employment. Paraplegia News, a publication of the Paralyzed Veterans of America, has information on paraplegia and wheelchair living.

To order a free subscription to these magazines, ask cooperating libraries for Encore magazine, on flexible disc.

Soccer, Baseball Schedules in Braille

Sports fans can order free game schedules in braille for the upcoming soccer and baseball seasons. The soccer season opened at the end of March, followed soon after in April by the baseball season.

The braille schedules provide all the information in the print schedules published by the North American Soccer League and the American and National Baseball Leagues.

During the year NLS sends braille football, basketball, hockey, soccer, and baseball schedules to braille-lending libraries. Watch the "In Brief" section of Braille Book Review for news about the new schedules. For a free braille schedule or more information about sports magazines, books, and schedules, call or write your braille-lending library.

Student Guide

Financial Aid after High School

The U.S. Department of Education has produced a flexible-disc edition of its student guide to financial assistance for handicapped high school graduates.

The guide is in the form of a dialogue between a physically handicapped high school graduate and an information specialist from the Department's Federal Student Information Center. In their dialogue, the student and the specialist discuss financial aid programs and vocational rehabilitation funds for eligible handicapped students seeking to continue their education after high school.

For free flexible-disc copies of the Student Guide, write to Mrs. Dorothy Harris, U.S. Department of Education, Office of Student Financial Assistance, 400 Maryland Avenue SW, Washington, D.C. 20202.

Newsstand

The following announcements may be of special interest to readers. Materials mentioned here, however, are not part of the NLS program.

Equipment and Machinery Catalog. The new regular-print catalog Tools, Equipment, and Machinery Adapted for the Vocational Education and Employment of Handicapped People lists equipment in twelve vocational categories, including computer processing and the machine trades. The catalog also cross-references equipment by disabilities and uses. To order a copy of the print catalog, send a check for $30 to Wisconsin Vocational Studies Center, University of Wisconsin-Madison, Publications, 265 Educational Sciences Building, Madison, Wisconsin 53706. Make checks payable to Wisconsin Vocational Studies Center. Wisconsin residents, send $31.20 to cover state sales taxes. For more information, call (area code 608) 263-4357.

Esperanto. Hadley School's language department has added a course in Esperanto, the language developed for international use. The new course consists of fourteen lessons in braille with recordings by several narrators. For information on enrollment and a free Bulletin of Courses in braille or on cassette, write to Student Services Coordinator, Hadley School for the Blind, 700 Elm Street, Winnetka, Illinois 60093, or call toll-free from 2 to 3 p.m. Central Time 800-323-4238.

Inventory List. In its eighteen-page Large-Print Inventory List, Volume 4, Vision Foundation has catalogued 140 free braille, print, large-print, cassette, and disc titles with information of interest to visually or physically handicapped people. Single copies of the large-print list are free. Cassette copies are two dollars each. To order, write to Vision Foundation, 770 Centre Street, Newton, Massachusetts 02158, or call (area code 617) 965-5877. Vision's in-state toll-free number is 1-800-852-3029.

Resources Guide, Voice Indexed. Coping with Sight Loss: The Vision Resource Book by Fran Alexander Weisse and Mimi Winer is a new guide recorded on four voice-indexed cassettes. The guide covers aids and devices, agencies and organizations, low vision services, eye disorders, mobility, and other topics. Though lacking the refinements of NLS voice-indexed cassettes, the recorded guide should be of help to visually impaired people. To order the four-cassette voice-indexed guide, send a check for five dollars, payable to Vision Foundation, Inc., 770 Centre Street, Newton, Massachusetts 02158.

Self-help Manuals. The National Institute of Handicapped Research recently funded publication of four self-help manuals in regular print. Lobbying for the Rights of Disabled People: Views from the Hill and from the Grass Roots is a guide to lobbying for the handicapped population. Financial Resources for Disabled Individuals explains cash benefits and other resources for meeting living and vocational needs. Learning to Live with Disability: A Guidebook for Families gives families a better understanding of the needs of their disabled members. Hiring and Supervising Personal Service Providers: A Guide offers advice to disabled people on supervising and hiring and firing personal assistants such as readers and drivers. The four regular-print booklets were published by the Institute for Informational Studies, which also plans to produce cassette editions later this year. The regular-print booklets can be purchased for one dollar per copy. Send orders to National Rehabilitation Information Center (NARIC), 4407 Eighth Street NE, The Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C. 20017. For more information, write to NARIC or call (area code 202) 635-5826. Make checks or money orders payable to NARIC.

Woodside Braille. Woodside volunteers have added six new titles to their growing loan collection in handcopied braille. Their new titles are The Dragon's Village (eight volumes) by Yuan-tsung Chen, Favorite Poems of Emily Dickinson (two volumes), Molokai "The Friendly Isle" (one volume) by Marlene Freedman, The Rich Are Different (twenty-three volumes) by Susan Howatch, Sadie Shapiro, Matchmaker (four volumes) by Robert Kimmel Smith, and The Third Time Around (five volumes) by George Burns. The Porter of Saint Bonaventure's XSB

by James Patrick Derum

5 volumes

Life of Father Solanus Casey, who performed menial monastery tasks through his sixty years as a Capuchin friar, yet became spiritual counselor to thousands. Seemingly inexplicable spiritual reformations and physical cures were attributed to his intercession, but it was his boundless charity and luminous goodness that won hearts.

Servant of Love XSB

by Edward Le Joly

4 volumes

At the request of Mother Teresa, the priest who served as her spiritual director has written the first inside account of the founding, spirit, and growth of her work and the Missionaries of Charity, the order of nuns she founded. Enriched by many conversations between the author and Mother Teresa, the book captures both the personality of its subject and the spirit of her missionary work.

Sign of Contradiction XSB

by Karol Wojtyla

5 volumes

The first full-length book published in English by Pope John Paul II. The theme is the human encounter with God in a world that seems to contradict the reality of divine power and love. Written in straightforward yet poetic language.

Pratt and Smoot

Sponsors of Free Library Service

More than fifty years ago, federal lawmakers Ruth Baker Pratt and Reed Smoot took up the cause of national free library service for the blind. Their bills—Smoot's in the Senate and Pratt's in the House—were finally merged into an act of Congress and signed into law by President Herbert Hoover. The history of the Library of Congress service is long. What is known of the lives and careers of the woman and man who helped establish this service is summed up in the following biographical capsules.

Ruth Pratt (1877–1965)

Ruth Pratt was born Ruth Baker in Ware, Massachusetts, on August 24, 1877. After receiving her degree in mathematics from Wellesley College, she studied violin in Europe. In 1903 she returned from Europe and married John Teele Pratt, a figure in the Republican Party and son of John D. Rockefeller's associate at Standard Oil who founded the Pratt Institute in Brooklyn.

The New York Times once called Ruth Pratt "a pioneer as a woman office holder." Her public career began during World War I when she chaired the Woman's Liberty Loan Committee of the Second Federal Reserve District. In 1919 and 1920, she was vice chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of the Republican National Convention, and in 1921, she was a presidential elector. She attended Republican state conventions throughout most of the twenties and in 1924 was a delegate to the Republican National Convention.

In 1925 she became the first woman elected to New York City's Board of Aldermen and was reelected for the following term. She ran an anti-Tammany—anti-Jimmy Walker campaign. At one time there was talk of Mrs. Pratt's running for mayor of New York.

Mrs. Pratt was the first woman elected to Congress from New York State. She represented the Seventeenth District, New York City's "silk stocking district." Her major concerns were immigration, citizenship, and veteran's relief. She was a member of the Banking and Currency Committee and the Committee on the Library. The first bill she introduced called for more liberal provisions for World War I veterans and their families.

After her second term ended in 1932, she returned to New York and participated actively in cultural affairs, serving on the board of directors for the Philharmonic Symphony Society of New York, acting as chairman of the Fine Arts Foundation, and working for the Episcopalian Club. She was a member of the Republican National Committee from 1921 until 1941. She died on August 23, 1965.

Reed Smoot (1862–1941)

Reed Smoot was born in Salt Lake City, Utah, on January 10, 1862. After graduation from the Brigham Young Academy, he achieved prominence as a businessman in Salt Lake City. By 1903, when he was elected to the Senate, he was president of Provo Commercial and Savings Bank, Smoot Investment Company, and the Electric Company of Provo. He also served on the board of directors of Zion's Cooperative Mercantile Institution, Deseret National Bank, and Deseret Savings Bank.

By the time Reed Smoot introduced the Senate bill that provided for the establishment of a free national library service, he had been in the Senate for twenty-seven years and was head of the Senate Finance Committee. Mr. Smoot had become the Senate's expert on tariff taxation and public finance and was coauthor of the Smoot-Hawley tariff of 1929.

Mr. Smoot was known by his fellow senators as a hard worker. He spent many of his leisure hours working at the office. It was once established that his watchdog activities saved the government approximately one hundred million dollars annually.

In 1932, Mr. Smoot left Congress, moved back to Utah and devoted his time to the Mormon Church, in which he had been an active member all his life. He died in Saint Petersburg, Florida, on February 9, 1941.

Repairs, Service, Information

The Place to Turn . . . A Cooperating Library

When readers have machines needing repair, the first place to turn for information should be a cooperating library—the library that provides the services.

Today there are one hundred and sixty cooperating libraries in the national network, but a number of readers have been sending their broken machines to NLS in Washington, D.C.

Before returning machines for repair or service, readers can save time by first calling or writing the cooperating library that supplies the books. Cooperating libraries handle questions about service and requests for disc or cassette players and accessories such as needles and headphones. Some libraries may not actually repair or distribute machines and accessories, but their staff know where to refer readers for these services.

Ad Hoc Group Meets in June

Planning the Collection

In June, a reader-oriented advisory group meets with NLS to help chart a course in collection building for the coming year. The group, known as the Ad Hoc Advisory Group on Collection Building Activities, has two functions: it speaks for readers, and it helps NLS plan a book collection responsive to reader needs.

Representatives in the group this year come from the readers at large, national organized consumer groups, and the network of cooperating libraries. Organizations represented are the American Council of the Blind, the Blinded Veterans Association, the National Association of the Physically Handicapped, and the National Federation of the Blind. Regional conferences of cooperating libraries have selected one library representative and one reader at large for each of the four regions. This year, NLS has chosen two additional readers to serve in the group.

Throughout the year, readers can voice their concerns and recommendations by speaking to local branches of the organizations represented, to library representatives, and to reader spokesman. Cooperating libraries have more information about the activities of the group and its members.

This year's advisory group will spend much of its time on a collection building policy, now in the preliminary stages. The policy may take several years to hammer out, as it will require a detailed review of the national collection.

Magazine Corner

Braille Weekly

Readers have been reviewing the news of the week in braille since 1978, when the New York Times Large Type Weekly was added to the NLS magazine program. Thanks to the publisher and computer-assisted production methods, NLS mails each issue the week the large-print edition is published.

Soon after the weekly was added to the program, circulation grew by leaps and bounds. It is now one of the most popular periodicals and the only braille weekly in the program.

The paper covers national and international news. The department sections add depth and variety with interpretive features, editorials, notes on celebrities, and reviews of books, films, plays, and exhibitions. The articles are written by New York Times reporters and correspondents, and adapted for the large-print readership.

Readers can order free subscriptions to the braille or flexible-disc editions of the New York Times Large Type Weekly by calling or writing their cooperating libraries.

Smithsonian Institution

History of Writing for Blind Readers

In the fall of 1980, the Smithsonian Institution opened "In Touch," a one-year exhibition on writing and printing for blind readers. The exhibition stands in the Hall of Printing and Graphic Arts in the Smithsonian's National Museum of American History in Washington.

The exhibition traces the gradual emergence of a coherent system of representation from the confusing variety of nineteenth-century writing and printing methods. Highlights are reading and writing aids, embossed alphabets, maps and pictures, and writing devices. All items on display are labelled in braille; many are also represented by resin facsimiles, which can be touched. Some of the display cases can be opened for viewing by blind visitors.

The museum has just published a regular-print catalog, with full descriptions and a brief history, free to museum visitors. A braille edition of the catalog is also planned, and when produced it will be offered free to visitors on a first-come, first-served basis. The museum plans to send the exhibition to different cities after it closes in September this year.

Research Center for Blind Lawyers

Late last year, the U.S. Department of Justice inaugurated its Andrew Woods Sensory Assistance Center for blind staff members.

The center is equipped with $50,000 in electronic devices, giving staff members and department lawyers quick access to print materials and computer data. The center houses a Kurzweil Reading Machine, a talking terminal invented by a University of Illinois law professor, and a Triformation Systems LED-120 braille printer terminal. The Kurzweil Reading Machine translates printed materials into simulated speech. Both the talking terminal and the braille printer terminal are linked to Juris, the department's law computer data base.

The center was named after Andrew Woods, a blind civil rights lawyer for the Justice Department. Mr. Woods helped design the center before he died of cancer in 1979. Construction was completed in December 1980 under the direction of Daniel Meador, a blind assistant attorney general.

Newsstand

The following announcements may be of special interest to readers. Materials mentioned here, however, are not part of the NLS program.

Learning Disabilities. Steps to Independence for People with Learning Disabilities, available in recorded and regular-print editions, gives a concise overview of learning disabilities. The booklet emphasizes strategies for coping at home, on the job, and in social situations, taken from the experiences of people with disabilities. It was written by Dale Brown, a woman with learning disabilities, and published by Closer Look, a national resource center for parents of handicapped children, professionals, and disabled adults. The cassette edition was recorded by the Washington Volunteer Readers for the Blind. Free cassette copies may be ordered through regional cooperating libraries.

Legal Advocacy. Legal Services Corporation has produced Legal Advocacy for the Handicapped, a regular-print and cassette manual. The manual discusses the legal aspects of architectural and communications barriers, employment rights, and advocacy resources and procedures. For the fifteen-cassette edition, send a check or money order for twenty dollars to Legal Services Corporation, Training Resources Center, 733 Fifteenth Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20005, or call (area code 202) 272-4030.

Washington Atlas. Before visiting the nation's capital, tourists may want to buy a new atlas of greater Washington. The atlas comes in a tactile edition with raised-line drawings and text in large print and braille. It has fourteen maps highlighting points of local and historical interest, highways, rivers, and airports in the District of Columbia and suburbs. It includes a 230-entry index and a guide to the subway system. The atlas was made to complement Washington's Neighborhoods: A History of Change, an eleven-part radio series carried locally by a closed circuit radio reading service. To order an atlas, send a check or money order for twelve dollars, to the Washington Ear, 35 University Boulevard East, Silver Spring, Maryland 20901, or call (area code 301) 681-6636. For more information on the cost of the radio series on cassettes or open-reel tapes, call or write the Washington Ear. The recorded radio series will be available in the fall.

Handcopied Braille

Books with the BRA code are thermoform copies of braille books handcopied for NLS by volunteers. To order, complete the order form and return it to your braille-lending library.

Because these books are in very limited supply, your requests may have to be placed on a waiting list. Please be prompt to read and return handcopied books within a few weeks for the sake of other readers who are waiting. The average loan period is four weeks. In unusual circumstances, however, readers may keep their volumes longer.

Judith Dixon Heads Consumer Relations

A strengthened consumer relations program has been established within NLS to ensure systematic integration of reader views and needs into all facets of planning and program development—from collection building and equipment design to provision of tailor-made services for individuals with special needs.

To direct the program, Judith Dixon was appointed head of the newly established Consumer Relations Section at NLS on June 15. She brings to the position experience in consumer liaison, evaluation research, and development of service delivery systems—all involving handicapped persons. Ms. Dixon received a B.A. degree from Stetson University in Florida and an M.A. and a Ph.D. from Adelphi University in New York.

Under her direction the new section will provide more active liaison with individual users and organized consumer groups, together with the development of an ongoing approach to obtaining, analyzing, and responding to consumer needs.

Ms. Dixon will also oversee service to readers overseas and creation of a unified volunteer utilization program aimed at assisting the nationwide network of 160 cooperating libraries to increase information services to users. More than 110 cooperating libraries use volunteers to support services to readers at the local level. Ms. Dixon will lead a concerted effort to increase the coordination and scope of volunteer contributions, currently estimated at an annual net worth of more than three million dollars.

Braille Guide to Library of Congress

While visiting the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C., tourists and researchers can request a free braille copy of the pamphlet Information for Readers in the Library of Congress.

The pamphlet, produced in commemoration of the International Year of Disabled Persons, explains reading room use, research services, orientation, employment, and local transportation. It includes a separate section on the braille and talking-book program, as well as information on scheduling appointments for use of the Kurzweil reading machine.

Copies of the pamphlet are available on request at the following locations: Library of Congress Tour Office, Educational Liaison Office, Sales Counter, Information Office, Main Reading Room, Thomas Jefferson Reading Room, and National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped.

Braille Highlights

Review of National Library Program

In 1931 the Pratt-Smoot Act established the first truly national, federally funded library program for blind adults in the United States, administered by the Library of Congress. Fortunately, advances in braille technology and library service for blind people had helped pave the way for an auspicious beginning.

Prehistory of the Program

The Library of Congress program began in 1897 with a collection of 500 embossed books and music materials. Earlier pioneers were the Boston Public Library and a handful of libraries in other cities.

The federal government gave its support to books for blind readers in 1879 when Congress established a perpetual trust which it used to finance the production of embossed schoolbooks at the American Printing House for the Blind. In 1906 Congress modified the terms of the trust and authorized a direct annual appropriation from the income of the trust. After increasing appropriations in 1919, 1927, 1937, 1952, and 1956, Congress in 1961 lifted the ceiling on schoolbook appropriations.

As early as 1904, the government had shown a commitment to library service by the grant of a free mailing privilege for embossed books. The privilege was intended to encourage libraries to supply books to readers in other localities, but libraries soon found it difficult to keep up with the demand and to justify local funds for service outside their communities. In 1913, Congress required one copy of each federally subsidized schoolbook to be deposited in the Library of Congress collection. Thanks to gifts and regular acquisitions, the collection held several thousand volumes in six different forms of raised type by 1929.

The controversy over the best system for finger reading raged for fifty years and ended in 1917, with braille, grade 1 ½, as the generally accepted standard in the United States. Agreement on a uniform code for the English-speaking world was reached in 1932, with the adoption of Standard English

Braille, grade 2, signalling the decline of grade 1 ½ and the gradual extinction of other forms of raised type.

These early years were also marked by advances in embossing. Foremost of these were Frank H. Hall's invention of a braille typewriter in 1892 and a stereotype machine in 1893. The Matilda Ziegler Magazine for the Blind led the development of the interpointing process, refined in 1932 by the American Foundation for the Blind with a grant from the Carnegie Corporation, and soon put into practice at braille presses. By making it possible for braille to be printed on both sides of a page, interpointing was to yield a substantial savings in paper and shelf space.

Despite progress and continuing federal support during this period, library service remained local, scattered, and inadequate to the needs of readers. Because of the high cost of embossing, collection growth was negligible, readers lost interest, and the books were relegated to display cases or the back shelves of libraries. With the return of veterans blinded in World War I, pressures began to build for a full-fledged national library program.

Building the Program, 1931–1950

On July 1, 1931, the Library of Congress began operations with a network of eighteen libraries and a budget of $100,000 for the production and distribution of braille books. By mid-September, fifteen titles had been selected, among them a biography of George Washington, the first to be produced. By the year's end, the New York Public Library and the American Braille Press in Paris had published the first issue of Braille Book Review in braille.

By 1934 the volunteer braille transcribing program was well underway. The Library of Congress had been certifying American Red Cross trained transcribers since the end of World War I, and in 1943 it took over the training program, which the Red Cross was forced to abandon because of World War II activities.

Rapid Growth, 1950–1981

America's recovery from the depression and the war years had slowed growth through the 1940s, but in the following decades the program would undergo rapid expansion with the help of Congressional legislation and increasing appropriations. New legislation extended service to blind children in 1952, gave the collection of braille scores and music materials the status of a national library in 1962, and granted eligibility to physically handicapped people in 1966.

From the 1950s on, talking-book innovations set the pace. Though talking books were brought into the program in 1933, there had been little improvement on the original design until 1958 with research in slower playing speeds. Then research and testing would result in increased playing time for recordings; the introduction of cassette books, cassette players, flexible discs, four-side cassettes; and improvements in talking-book machines.

Advances in braille from 1950 through 1970 were limited to improvements in the transcriber training program. Because of the influx of blind students into public schools, volunteer training was strengthened and greater emphasis given to braille textbook formats. In 1960 the Library of Congress reported a one-month peak of nearly 800 transcribers trained and certified. The tran-scriber training program would continue to grow, branching out into the new specializations of music transcribing in the 1960s and mathematics transcribing in the late 1970s.

By the 1970s interest in braille had revived, beginning with a survey to profile braille readers and their reading habits and tastes, followed by a series of developments bearing promise for the future of braille technology.

In 1976 the New York Times Large Type Weekly was added to the braille magazine program, and research undertaken in high-speed plate-embossing devices. Increased emphasis on improving braille technology led to a study of production methods in 1978, purchase and testing of cassette-braille machines in 1979, research in grade 1 braille in 1980, and acquisition of a Japanese-made print image-embossing device in 1981.

Possibly the most promising of these recent developments is the use of print photocomposition tapes, or compositors' tapes, for the production of braille books. This new application had been tried in 1968 to produce The East India Man (BR 852). Because of the time and costs involved further experimentation had to wait until 1979 and the production of National Geographic in braille. In 1980 the process was tried once again in the production of a book, Helen and Teacher (BR 4330), this time with greater success. If the compositors' tape-to-braille process can be refined, it will enable presses to complete braille books and magazines close to the time of their publication in print.

The most recent activities in braille production have been directed to the testing of cassette braille machines and sponsorship of a production and test center at the American Foundation for the Blind in New York City.

The cassette braille machines use braille coded onto standard cassettes to activate a tactile display of braille. Each braille cassette has a storage capacity of 400 braille pages. The new test center in New York is experimenting with optical translation of print into braille using a Kurzweil data-entry machine and with braille translation systems to produce cassettes carrying data programmed for a high-speed embossing device.

While these and other recent projects are still in the experimental stages, they hold promise for a new era in braille books.

Book Review Magazine

Books of the Times

In response to requests from readers, NLS has added a book review magazine in braille and flexible-disc editions. The new magazine, Books of the Times, is published by a subsidiary of the New York Times.

Each month Books of the Times carries book reviews taken from the columns of the New York Times daily edition. The reviews are brief and organized alphabetically by title. The magazine includes the current hardcover and paperback bestseller lists plus news of events and trends in the book market.

Many of the books reviewed are being selected for production in the national talking-book program. Subscribers may also find books to recommend to cooperating libraries for addition to local collections.

Free subscriptions to Books of the Times and to other magazines with book review sections may be ordered by calling or writing cooperating libraries. Comments on the new magazine are welcomed by the National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C. 20542. Attention: Collection Development.

Music Has *Overtones

NLS Music Section offers Overtones as a free subscription magazine in braille. Overtones, produced by the Lighthouse in New York, is a bimonthly compilation of articles on music for enthusiasts and opera buffs.

Subscriptions to Overtones in braille can be requested from the Music Section, National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C. 20542. The Music Section also offers free braille subscriptions to Braille Musical Magazine, Braille Piano Tuners Journal, Music Article Guide, The Musical Mainstream, and Popular Music Lead Sheets.

Facts on Disabilities

Center Adds Data Base

Now entering its third year of service, the National Rehabilitation Information Center (NARIC) has expanded its computer data base of publications and abstracts. This year, NARIC has added "ABLEDATA," a data base containing information on devices, equipment, and aids for disabled people. NARIC data bases are accessible for searching from any computer terminal in the nation.

The center acts both as a clearing house for information on rehabilitation and as the heart of a growing network of rehabilitation professionals, and government, state, and local agencies. Serving the public and professionals, NARIC supplies copies of research reports, audiovisual materials, journal articles, and periodicals; prepares bibliographies; and answers requests for information. Some NARIC materials are available in recorded and braille formats. NARIC also publishes the Pathfinder, a bimonthly newsletter in braille or regular print. Yearly subscriptions are twelve dollars for the braille edition, ten dollars for the regular-print edition.

NARIC was founded September 30, 1979, by the Graduate Departments of Library and Information Science of the Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C. The center derived its funding from a five-year grant awarded by the Rehabilitation Services Administration, a branch of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

NARIC is open weekdays for voice or teletypewriter calls at (area code 202) 635-5884. For more information about the cost of services, write to National Rehabilitation Center, The Catholic University of America, Eighth and Varnum Streets NE, Washington, D.C. 20064.

Football Schedules

Readers can prepare for the coming football season by ordering free schedules in braille from braille-lending libraries. The libraries also have information on braille or recorded magazines and books covering sports events and personalities.

This year the National Football League's 224-game season opens September 5 and ends December 21. The postseason playoff series begins on December 27, leading to Super Bowl 16 in the Silverdome at Pontiac, Michigan, January 24. The braille schedules give local broadcast times and a listing of nationally televised games.

Scholarships for Women

This year the American Foundation for the Blind is offering two scholarships from the R. L. Gillette Fund. The scholarships will be awarded to visually handicapped women beginning a four-year B.A. degree in literature or music this September.

Scholarship winners will receive an annual stipend of $1,000 for each of their four years. For more information on these scholarships, write to Dr. Susan J. Spungin, American Foundation for the Blind, 15 West Sixteenth Street, New York, New York 10011, or call (area code 212) 620-2031.

Contest for Blind Writers

The Jewish Braille Institute of America has opened the Eleventh International Literary Competition for Blind Writers. The deadline for entries is February 28, 1982.

A total of $9,000 will be awarded in prizes for fiction, nonfiction, and poetry. Contestants are required to submit typed double-spaced manuscripts in English.

Fiction and nonfiction entries are limited to a maximum length of 6,500 words; poetry entries to three 8 ½ by 11 inch typed pages. Contestants in the nonfiction category must limit their entries to an aspect of economics, society, health, welfare, or the environment affecting the world, a nation, a society, or a community. They may write about blindness or the condition of blind people.

For more information on the contest, write to Jewish Braille Institute of America, 110 East Thirtieth Street, New York, New York 10016.

Essay Contest

In honor of its forthcoming seventy-fifth anniversary, the Matilda Ziegler Magazine for the Blind is sponsoring an essay-writing contest for its subscribers this year. The contest deadline is September 30, 1981.

The magazine will award cash prizes of $250, $175, and $100 for the three best essays. Contestants are to write about a key event or decision that marked a turning point or change in their life, outlook, or self-image. The prize-winning essays will be published in the magazine next year.

For more information about the contest, write to Frances A. Koestler—Editor, The Matilda Ziegler Magazine for the Blind, 20 West Seventeenth Street, New York, New York 10011, or call (area code 212) 242-0263.

Newsstand

The following announcements may be of special interest to readers. Materials mentioned here, however, are not part of the NLS program.

Aids, Equipment, Games. Science for the Blind Products' latest regular-print and recorded catalogs include aids, toys, novelties, games, and accessories for use by blind or physically handicapped people. The catalogs list such additions to the product line as a programmable braille calculator with braille tape output, playing cards in large print and braille, print magnifiers, and bathroom scales with sound and touch read-outs. For a free print or recorded catalog, write to SFB Products, Box 385, Wayne, Pennsylvania 19087, or call (area code 215) 687-3731.

Appliance Labels. Braille overlays, operating instructions, and owner's manuals can be ordered free for selected washers, dryers, air conditioners, and microwave ovens in the Kenmore line of Sears and Roebuck Company appliances. The braille overlays fit on appliance control panels. For more information, call a local branch of Sears.

Braille Book Bank. Since publication of its latest catalog, the National Braille Association has produced a number of new braille titles. New books on sale from the Braille Book Bank include Cooking with a Food Processor, Family Circle Quick Menu Cookbook, The Purple Pages: An Action-Oriented Guide to Complaining, and Getting Results, Radio Amateur's License Manual, and Arthritis: The Basic Facts. Braille or print editions of the 1980 General Interest Catalog are one dollar a copy. For a price list of books, or a catalog, write to NBA Braille Book Bank, 422 Clinton Avenue South, Rochester, New York 14620. The NBA also transcribes print materials for four cents a completed braille page, bindings included. To request transcriptions, send a copy of the print materials to be transcribed to the NBA Reader-Transcriber Registry, 5300 Hamilton Avenue, Number 1404, Cincinnati, Ohio 45224.

Job-Finding Skills. In Touch Networks, of New York City, has recorded The Assertive Jobseeker, a three-hour program highlighted by interviews with specialists such as Richard Bolles, author of What Color Is Your Parachute? (BR 4279). Telephone interviews with writers, consultants, and other experts make up the core of the program, consisting of six half-hour sessions. The program starts with "General Jobseeking Methods" and concludes with "Technical Aids." The producer of the program spent a year researching, interviewing, and editing the program for blind and physically handicapped people in the New York area. In Touch Networks, founded in 1978, provides 109 hours of weekly programming over an FM station subcarrier. For the three cassette or three open-reel set of The Assertive Jobseeker, send a check for $9.00 to In Touch Networks, 322 West Forty-eighth Street, New York, New York 10036, and indicate your preference for cassettes or open reels. For more information, call (area code 212) 586-5588.

Sports Brochure. Easter Seal's regular print brochure The Widening World of Sports and Recreation for People with Disabilities describes a variety of activities. The brochure also lists names and addresses of twenty-five organizations that have information on recreation and competitive activities for disabled people. For a copy of the brochure, send a stamped, self-addressed number 10 envelope with thirty-five cents to the National Easter Seal Society, 2023 West Ogden Avenue, Chicago, Illinois 60612.

Survey of Disabled People. The Disability Rights Education and Defense Fund needs volunteers to participate in a national survey. With a grant from the Women's Educational Equity Act Program in Washington, D.C., the organization is conducting a survey to identify the educational experiences and needs of a large representative sampling of blind and physically handicapped people. Responses to the survey will be kept strictly confidential. To participate in the survey, write to Ann Cupolo, Disability Rights Education and Defense Fund, 2032 San Pablo Avenue, Berkeley, California 94702, or call toll free outside California 800-227-2357. In California, call collect (area code 415) 644-2555. Both phone numbers are voice and teletypewriter.

Advances in Braille

Composer's Tapes

A braille book was ready for circulation to readers last summer almost as soon as the print edition appeared in bookstores. Helen and Teacher (BR 4330), by Pulitzer Prize-winning author Joseph Lash, was published in print at the end of May 1980. The braille edition of the book was produced only a month later.

The braille edition was readied by using composer's tapes, the storage medium used to drive the phototypesetting equipment for the print book. The 786-page print book fills eight braille volumes.

Even with the new technology, considerable advance planning was required to produce an eight-volume braille book to coincide with the publication of the print version. It also took cooperation.

The composer's tapes were provided prior to print publication by arrangement with the publisher, Delacorte Press/Seymour Lawrence. The publishing house also provided galley proofs of the book to National Braille Press, the Boston firm that worked with NLS to produce the braille edition. The galleys were used to help code braille contractions and to proofread.

The magazine National Geographic has been produced using composer's tapes for more than two years. Success with the magazine led to production of this book. The magazine test period proved that the tapes can interface with braille plate-embossing machines at braille printing houses. The process is not as simple as using the tape from one machine to drive another; manual intervention is needed to remove print codes from the tapes, to recode for braille contractions, and to format the braille pages.

When the National Geographic project began, computer technology for print publications was providing editorially accurate tapes, but only about 20 percent of print books were produced by this method. That number is expected to approach 80 percent in the mid-1980s. By then it is hoped that braille technology will be ready to use this new application for faster and more efficient production of braille books and especially magazines.

Volunteer Directory

Sources of Specialized Reading Materials

Readers can locate volunteer producers of specialized or hard-to-find reading materials by referring to the NLS directory Volunteers Who Produce Books, 1981: Braille, Tape, Large Type. Free copies of the directory can be ordered in large print from cooperating and braille-lending libraries.

This latest edition includes information on using the directory and sections on special reading materials, braille writing equipment, certified proofreaders, and special education resources.

The main section, "Volunteers Who Produce Books," lists volunteer groups alphabetically by state and by cities within each state. Entries show name, address, telephone number, and service provided. Each entry carries a number for quick reference from the index. Readers can locate the nearest source by referring to the volunteers section. The index lists groups who provide such services as recording, transcription, duplication, and large-print typing, and whose specializations include music, mathematics, and languages.

Helen Keller Congress: News and Reports

The American Foundation for the Blind has produced a five-volume handcopied braille edition of "Helen Keller's Legacy: A Blueprint for the Future," first published in March 1981 as a special issue of Journal of Visual Impairment and Blindness.

The special issue forms the official record of the Helen Keller Centennial Congress, held June 23–28, 1980, in Boston, Massachusetts. The congress was organized by the American Foundation for the Blind and co-sponsored by nearly seventy agencies and organizations involved in work with blindness and visual disabilities.

The special issue contains papers delivered at the congress and reports from meetings of co-sponsoring agencies. It includes such papers as "Impact of Science and Technology on the Early Years," "Employment of Handicapped People: An Enigmatic Future," "Rights, Privileges, and Responsibilities," and "NLS and Consumer Relations."

The handcopied braille edition of "Helen Keller's Legacy: A Blueprint for the Future" is available on a first-come, first-served basis from regional cooperating libraries.

Postal Service Honors Blind and Disabled People

This summer the U.S. Postal Service commemorated the International Year of Disabled Persons with two new postal issues—a stamp and an 18-cent envelope.

The stamp depicts a person in a wheelchair working alone with a laboratory microscope. The designer developed the theme for the new 18-cent stamp from nationwide interviews with disabled persons and professionals who work with them. In issuing the 18-cent commemorative stamp, the United States joins other nations in promoting rehabilitation efforts and education for the prevention of disabilities.

The new 18-cent stamped envelope bears the message "Remember the Blinded Veteran" and features an embossed hand positioned to read braille and braille characters for "USA 18¢" embossed directly over the print.

Matilda Ziegler Marks Seventy-Five Years

In March 1982, the Matilda Ziegler Magazine for the Blind celebrates its seventy-fifth anniversary. Founded in 1907 with a grant from Electa Matilda Zeigler, mother of a blind son and widow of a wealthy industrialist, it is one of the oldest magazines for blind readers in the United States. In its early years, the magazine was produced in braille, New York Point, and Moon Type, but now is produced only in braille and disc editions.

The magazine is issued ten times a year with double issues for July/August and January/February. Issues carry topical articles from a wide selection of periodicals, book excerpts, short fiction, poetry, humor, and information of interest to blind people. This year the publishers honored the forthcoming anniversary with an essay-writing contest, which closed on September 30. The prize-winning essays will be published during the anniversary year.

For more information about free subscriptions to the braille or 8 rpm flexible-disc editions of the magazine, write to Frances A. Koestler—Editor, Matilda Ziegler Magazine for the Blind, 20 West Seventeenth Street, New York, New York 10011, or call (212) 242-0263.

Exhibition on Embossing

The Smithsonian Institution is offering ‘In Touch,’ a free braille and regular-print catalog of a recent exhibition on writing and printing for blind readers. The catalog gives a brief history of embossing and descriptions of displays at the exhibition. The braille catalog includes a page of embossed illustrations.

Free copies of the exhibition catalog are available on a first-come, first-served basis. To order, write to Division of Graphic Arts, MAH 5703, Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C. 20560.

Newsstand

The following announcements may be of special interest to readers. Materials mentioned here, however, are not part of the NLS program.

Multimedia Catalog. Large-Print Inventory List, Volume 5, is a catalog of 160 titles available in braille, cassette, disc, regular-print, or large-print formats. It lists many free sample magazines, brochures, cookbooks, and catalogs. Single copies of the large-print edition are free; cassette copies are $2 each. To order, write to Vision Foundation, 770 Centre Street, Newton, Massachusetts 02158, or call (617) 965-5877. Massachusetts residents may call Vision toll free at 1-800-852-3029.

Prayer Book. Anglicans and Episcopalians can buy a braille edition of The Book of Common Prayer. The prayer book is available in a thirteen-volume, soft-cover set. To order, send a check or money order for $50 to Forward Movement, 412 Sycamore, Cincinnati, Ohio 45202.

Short Wave, Long Distance. Tuning a short-wave radio set to pick up distant broadcasts can become something of an addiction, as many hobbyists will confess. Handicapped Aid Program—USA was founded in 1972 as a long-distance short-wave radio club to meet the needs of disabled enthusiasts. The club offers cassette recordings of short-wave association newsletters and a circulating library. Receivers are loaned to members in need of assistance. For information about membership, send print, braille, cassette, or open-reel correspondence to Alfred E. Schwaneke—President, HAP—USA, Route 4, Box 32, Rolla, Missouri 65401, or call (314) 364-1047.

Books for Adults

The following books were recently produced for the NLS program. Books with the BR code are produced in press braille. Books with the BRA code are thermoform copies of braille books handcopied for NLS by volunteers. To order books with the BR and BRA codes, complete the order form and return it to your braille-lending library.

Because handcopied books are in very limited supply, your requests may have to be placed on a waiting list. Please be prompt to read and return handcopied books within a few weeks for the sake of other readers who are waiting. The average loan period is four weeks. In unusual circumstances, however, readers may keep their volumes longer.

Note: For the information of the reader, a notice may appear immediately following the book description to indicate occurrences of strong language, explicit descriptions of sex, or violence. The word "some" before any of these terms indicates an occasional or infrequent occurrence, as in "some strong language."

Press Braille Nonfiction

A View of the Thames BR 3626

by Norman Shrapnel
3 volumes

A leisurely look at the landscape and the historic events that took place along the banks of the famous river that flows from the countryside through London to the sea. 1977.

Joyce Grenfell Requests the Pleasure BR 3774

by Joyce Grenfell
5 volumes

Autobiography of the British humorist, niece of Lady Astor, whose career as a satirist, journalist, radio star, and concert hall singer began in the 1930s. Some of her family friends included Henry James, Bernard Shaw, Noel Coward, and Stephen Potter. 1976.

Dangerous to Man BR 4231

by Roger A. Caras
4 volumes

A noted wildlife writer discusses animals that have been labeled as dangerous to man. His treatment includes mammals, birds, reptiles, amphibians, fishes, and invertebrates. He puts to rest the myth that some animals such as tigers are man-eaters (very few are) while warning that other animals are deceptively innocuous. 1975.

Books for Children

The following books were recently produced for the NLS program. Books with the BR code are produced in press braille. Books with the BRA code are thermoform copies of braille books handcopied for NLS by volunteers. To order books with the BR and BRA codes complete the order form and return it to your braille-lending library.

Because handcopied books are in very limited supply, your requests may have to be placed on a waiting list. Please be prompt to read and return handcopied books within a few weeks for the sake of other readers who are waiting. The average loan period is four weeks. In unusual circumstances, however, readers may keep their volumes longer.

Note: For the information of the reader, a notice may appear immediately following the book description to indicate occurrences of strong language, explicit descriptions of sex, or violence. The word "some" before any of these terms indicates an occasional or infrequent occurrence, as in "some strong language."

The Library of Congress

When blood is nipt and ways be foul,
Then nightly sings the staring owl,
Tu-whit, tu-who, a merry note,
While greasy Joan doth keel the pot.

Love's Labour's Lost

Cover: The simulated braille words for “Holidays and Entertainment” on the cover of this issue announce the arrival of the winter season—a time for catching up on good reading in the national braille book collection. In addition to braille magazines, the collection contains classic holiday tales and books about entertainment, indoors and outdoors.

Desk Calendar for the New Year

While supplies last, blind or physically handicapped readers may order a free NLS 1982 desk calendar. The 8½ by 9 inch calendar with color photo illustrations and text in large print and braille provides ample space for note taking with pencil, pen, or slate and stylus. An introduction in braille and large print discusses research and development activities in NLS braille and talking-book production.

Free copies of the 1982 calendar are offered to blind and physically handicapped readers on a first-come, first-served basis from Publication and Media Section, National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, Library of Congress, Washington, DC 20542. The general public can order the calendars for $4.95 a copy plus $1.00 shipping charges from the Library of Congress Information Office, Box A, Washington, DC 20540. When ordering copies from the Library of Congress, please specify "Item #NLS 1."

Social Security Information

In cooperation with NLS, the Social Security Administration has recorded three of its publications—Your Social Security, SSI for Aged, Disabled, and Blind People, and Your Medicare Handbook. The recording, on one flexible disc, is packaged with the braille edition of this issue of Braille Book Review. Disc copies are available on loan from cooperating libraries.

Your Social Security provides basic information about Social Security retirement, survivors' benefits, and disability benefits. It explains how protection is earned, who can get monthly payments, eligibility requirements for benefits, how benefit amounts are figured, and when and where to contact the Social Security Administration.

SSI for Aged, Disabled, and Blind People briefly describes the supplemental security income program. It tells who can qualify for payments, how income and assets can affect a person's eligibility and payment amount, and how the SSI program is financed.

Your Medicare Handbook explains in depth the federal health insurance program for people sixty-five or older and certain disabled people. It describes the two parts of Medicare—hospital insurance and medical insurance—and Medicare payments and coverages. The handbook also has instructions on filing Medicare insurance claims.

For more information on Social Security programs and recent amendments to Social Security and Medicare legislation, readers should call a local Social Security office.

New Bibliographies

Two NLS bibliographies were recently produced in large-print and disc editions — Magazines 1981 and Young Adult Fiction 1981. The recorded editions list recorded titles. The large-print editions list titles in all formats.

Magazines 1981 lists more than 200 periodicals nationally available in large-print, recorded, Moon type, and braille editions. This bibliography, which replaces Magazines 1978, includes addresses of sources for magazine subscriptions, as well as an order form for the eighty-five free subscription magazines available from cooperating libraries. Entries are arranged alphabetically by title under general subject headings. Each entry indicates magazine format, frequency of publication, content, scope, and source.

The large-print edition of Magazines 1981 has been sent to people who receive Braille Book Review in large-print.

Young Adult Fiction 1981 is a selective bibliography containing new and old titles with a variety of themes of interest for the twelve to twenty age group and for adults. Books are grouped by format in thirteen subject categories, including "Adventure," "Family," "Fantasy and Supernatural," "Humor," "Love," "Mystery and Suspense," and "Sports." The large-print edition includes an author-title index, listings of free subscription magazines and of other bibliographies available from cooperating libraries, and book order forms.

Young Adult Fiction 1981 in large print will be sent to all readers who ordered the large-print edition.

Magazine Corner

Weekly Book Reviews

Book World, a weekly book review magazine, has been chosen to replace Books of the Times, which published its last issue in October 1981.

Subscribers to the braille and flexible-disc editions of Books of the Times will automatically receive Book World. This weekly, a supplement to the Washington Post Sunday edition, carries reviews by specialists and current authors. Issues include reviews of groups of recent or forthcoming books. Bestseller lists and news from the book market are included. Production of Book World began with the November issues.

Free subscriptions to Book World in braille or on flexible discs can be ordered by writing or calling cooperating libraries.

Family Health* Changes Name

This year, Family Health magazine changed its name to Health. The magazine has retained the format and coverage that made it a leader in circulation among other health magazines in print for the general reader.

Health is published ten times a year, with double issues in July/August and November/December. Each issue devotes feature articles to a topic of current interest and includes regular reports on advances in medical science, letters from readers, recipes, and advice on fitness, beauty, and health. Articles are written by health specialists, doctors, psychologists, and medical journalists.

Free subscriptions to Health in braille can be ordered from your cooperating library.

Hockey, Basketball Schedules, 1981/82

Sports fans can order braille schedules for the new hockey and basketball seasons from their braille-lending libraries.

The National Hockey League opened its season on October 6. The National Basketball Association season began on October 30. This season's basketball schedule includes local game times and news about player acquisitions.

In cooperation with national sports associations and leagues, NLS distributes braille hockey, basketball, soccer, baseball, and football schedules throughout the year to patrons through braille-lending libraries. These libraries also have information on braille magazines and books covering sports events and personalities.

Book Priorities Discussed

In June, the Ad Hoc Advisory Group on Collection Building Activities met at NLS to help plan activities for the collection. The meeting included thirteen representatives of readers-at-large, consumer organizations, and network libraries.

Recommendations this year focused on nonfiction and classic titles. The nine consumer members recommended the addition of more American classics and nonfiction titles for learned laymen and professionals, especially in science, history, and the social sciences.

Librarians representing the four regions of the national network also considered the social sciences as a high priority and stressed the need for more titles on electronics and computers, self-help books, and single-volume reference works on cassette. The librarians suggested that NLS reissue cassette editions of classics and Newbery Award books for children. Participants devoted much of their time to discussion of a collection-building policy being developed by NLS.

The ad hoc group meets with NLS every year to speak for readers and to help in building a collection responsive to reader needs. Throughout the year, readers have an opportunity to voice their concerns and recommendations by speaking to members of the group. Cooperating libraries have more information about the ad hoc group and its members.

Expectations 1981

Children's Anthology

Children grades 3 through 6 and adults who like to read to children can order free braille copies of Expectations 1981 (volume 33), a yearly anthology produced by the Braille Institute of America. The 1981 edition of Expectations contains nine short books, excerpts from three longer books, stories, and verse. The cover was designed by award-winning artist Graham Booth.

This year's edition offers a page of microfragrance labels and embossed illustrations. Complete books reprinted include Jamie's Tiger by Jan Wahl, Simon and the Golden Sword by Frank Newfield, and Arion and the Dolphins by Lonzo Anderson.

Expectations 1981 has been scheduled for distribution in late November. Copies can be ordered from Betty Kalagian, Braille Institute of America, 741 North Vermont Avenue, Los Angeles, CA 90029.

Promoting Braille

Fifty-five people concerned about the decline of braille reading and production met this summer and formed the Braille Revival League. In naming their organization, the founders made a deliberate choice. The organization's initials—BRL—are also the braille short-form word for "braille." The goals of the new organization are to promote braille production and the teaching and use of braille.

The meeting took place July 7 during the American Council of the Blind Conference in Saint Louis, Missouri. By the end of the conference the group had signed up 106 members and elected temporary officers to draft a constitution and direct the organization. Plans are to affiliate with the American Council of the Blind.

BRL's first newsletter in braille, published in September this year, suggests several ways of furthering the use and production of braille. Members can help, the newsletter says, by requesting braille books from the library, promoting volunteer braille transcribing groups in their communities, participating in NLS surveys and other projects, and supporting their cooperating libraries.

For information about membership in BRL, write to Floyd R. Cargill—President, Braille Revival League, 216 West Miller Street, Springfield, IL 62702.

Newsstand

The following announcements may be of interest to readers. Materials mentioned here, however, are not part of the NLS program.

Amateur Radio Operators. The Oklahoma Radio Reading Service and the American Council of the Blind Service Network are compiling a list of blind and visually impaired amateur radio operators. To have your name listed, write to Oklahoma Radio Reading Service, Oklahoma Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, 1108 Northeast Thirty-sixth Street, Oklahoma City, OK 73111.

Diabetes. You, Your Eyes, and Your Diabetes is a new six-lesson correspondence course available free from the Hadley School for the Blind. The course covers administration of insulin, diets, everyday living skills, prevention of complications, and resources for blind diabetics. The course is offered in jumbo braille and cassette versions. To enroll, write to the Hadley School for the Blind, 700 Elm Street, Winnetka, IL 60093. For more information about the Hadley School's correspondence courses, call toll free on 1-800-323-4238 from 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Central Time, Monday through Friday. Illinois residents may call toll free on 1-800-942-4193.

Feminist Publications. Womyn's Braille Press, a volunteer group formed in 1980, is building a lending library of braille and cassette titles. For more information about the group's collection or newsletter, write to Womyn's Braille Press, Inc., P.O. Box 8475, Minneapolis, MN 55408.

Subscription Library. Braille Inc. is launching a private subscription lending library, with a collection of 150 braille volumes of current fiction and nonfiction. Books are rented to members. For more information about the library, write to Braille Inc., 44 Scranton Avenue, Falmouth, MA 02540.

Woodside Books. Woodside Terrace volunteers have added several handcopied books to their local collection. The new books are Confessions of a Medical Heretic (5 volumes) by Robert S. Mendelsohn, M.D., Second Generation (14 volumes, also available on cassette from cooperating libraries as RC 13223) by Howard Fast, and Striding Folly (2 volumes) by Dorothy L. Sayers. For a free list of handcopied books on loan from the Woodside collection, write to Mrs. Murray Draper, 850 Longview Road, Hillsborough, CA 94010, or call (415) 344-0803.

Books for Adults

The following books were recently produced for the NLS program. Books with the BR code are produced in press braille. Books with the BRA code are thermoform copies of braille books handcopied for NLS by volunteers. To order books with the BR and BRA codes, complete the order form and return it to your braille-lending library.

Because handcopied books are in very limited supply, your requests may have to be placed on a waiting list. Please be prompt to read and return handcopied books within a few weeks for the sake of other readers who are waiting. The average loan period is four weeks. In unusual circumstances, however, readers may keep their volumes longer.

Note: For the information of the reader, a notice may appear immediately following the book description to indicate occurrences of strong language, explicit descriptions of sex, or violence. The word "some" before any of these terms indicates an occasional or infrequent occurrence, as in "some strong language."

Press Braille Nonfiction

Robert Lowell's Poems BR 3925

edited by Jonathan Raban
3 volumes

A selection from the American poet's work offers a complete look at his output from 1938 to the 1970s. Many poems are set in New England and deal with his illustrious ancestors. His poetry is considered complex, intense, and occasionally ironic, and is marked by a strong sense of rhythm. 1974.

Complete Secretary's Handbook BR 4144

Bertilla Alvinston's mother sends her to Sarawak as a missionary to get her away from home. After many adventures, Bertilla falls in love with a trade investigator. 1977.

Kilrone BRA 16538

by Louis L'Amour

3 volumes

If he is to survive, Kilrone, an Indian fighter, needs the rawest courage and the fastest guns the West has ever known. Medicine Dog has sworn to take his scalp, Iron Dave Sproul is gunning for revenge, and all the Bannocks and the Paiutes want him dead. Only Major Frank Paddock trusts him, and Betty Considine gives him love. 1979.

The Golden Child BRA 16625

by Penelope Fitzgerald

4 volumes

A junior officer at the great London museum, where the "Golden Child" exhibit attracts thousands of spectators, is sent to Russia when museum authorities suspect that there are fakes among the treasures. When he returns, he finds that the old archaeologist who first uncovered the treasures has been murdered in the museum library. 1977.

Amazon Journey BRA 16650

by John Ridgway

4 volumes

Three men and a woman—who hardly knew each other and have only their love of adventure in common—set out in a small boat to explore the mighty Amazon River, from its highest source in the Andes to its mouth some four thousand miles away. Along the way they encounter such hazards as insects, wild animals, altitude sickness, and personality clashes. 1972.

Books for Children

The following books were recently produced for the NLS program. Books with the BR code are produced in press braille. Books with the BRA code are thermoform copies of braille books handcopied for NLS by volunteers. To order books with the BR and BRA codes, complete the order form and return it to your braille-lending library.

Because handcopied books are in very limited supply, your requests may have to be placed on a waiting list. Please be prompt to read and return handcopied books within a few weeks for the sake of other readers who are waiting. The average loan period is four weeks. In unusual circumstances, however, readers may keep their volumes longer.

Note: For the information of the reader, a notice may appear immediately following the book description to indicate occurrences of strong language, explicit descriptions of sex, or violence. The word "some" before any of these terms indicates an occasional or infrequent occurrence, as in "some strong language."
